

Bullshit Drinking Game

Supplies: beer/alcohol, playing cards
Minimum Number of Players: No More Than 6

Sit in a circle and deal out the entire deck of cards evenly to each player. The object of the game is to get rid of all your cards. Starting with aces, the first player lays down the number of aces s/he has, stating the number of cards. If someone thinks that you are lying, they say "Bullshit!" If that person is right, you drink an amount proportional to the number of cards in the stack; lots of cards already played equals lots of drinks. However, if you were honest in your play and someone says "Bullshit!" that person ends up drinking the prescribed amount. Play starts with aces, then goes on accordingly, through kings, then repeats back to aces. If have to drink because of either being caught bullshitting or falsely accusing, in addition to drinking, you must also pick up all of the cards already played and add them to your hand. Play continues until someone runs out of cards.

This player then does the "Viking horns," but the player on each side of the "Viking" must "row the boat." This entails rowing to whatever side of the Viking the player is sitting on; right of the Viking rows right, left rows the boat left. The Viking then claps both palms together and designates another Viking. This continues until either the designated Viking misses his cue, or either rower fails to row the boat in the appropriate direction; whomever fails drinks, and then that person resumes play with "the horns."

Supplies: 4 shot glasses, beer, a quarter, and two teams of people
Minimum Number of Players: 6 +

Set up the four shot glasses in a row going away from home base (the designated shooting spot for the quarter). Each player on the visiting team takes turns shooting the quarter at the shot glasses. The first glass represents a single, the second a double, the third a triple, and the last a home run. Three strikes (misses of all shot glasses) and you are out. Three outs and the other team is up to bat. Game follows as regular baseball and runs are scored in the same way (except that you have to keep track of the runners on base in your head). Drinking happens in the following manner:

Fill the shot glasses with beer. If a player makes the quarter into a shot glass (gets a hit), he must drink the contents of the shot glasses behind the one he made. For example, if he hits a single, he must drink the remaining three shot glasses full of beer. If he hits a triple, he only has to drink one. If he gets an out, he must drink all four. The opposite team must drink for each run the other team scores.
